

Located in Hulett Park
Next to the CV Abbott Playground
Division Street between
S. 6th & S. 7th Sts.
Fulton, NY

'The Born Learning Trail' is a series of learning stations with fun games that parents, grandparents or caregivers can play with young children. It gives the child a chance to interact with an adult in a fun atmosphere that promotes learning. There are 9 learning stations that are apart of the trail. The stations use the surrounding environment and tools apart of the trail to complete the tasks at each sign.

Today, not every child is encouraged to learn at home before they enter kindergarten. Many families don't realize the importance of teaching their children basic learning foundations; for example, counting, ABC's, colors, animals, physical activity, etc. 'The Born Learning Trail' is a great tool of encouragement for these learning foundations to start.

Made possible through support from:

Walmart Supercenter Fulton VAP Grant
Baldwin Masonry
City of Fulton
Northern Concrete
United Way of Greater Os. Co.

Art work and stencil direction provided by
Bill Mihalko, Binghamton, NY

Volunteers for art work installation:
Lori Lyons, Morgan Mears,
Jonathan Mears, Jeremy Ware

United Way Project Manager, Ali McGrath; Walmart Volunteer Coordinator, Lori Lyons and Artist Bill Mihalko. For more info call 593-1900 x 204